A new level of buoyancy and support

The Areus II features all the stability of our Nobella-series base coil plus the dynamic support and elasticity of an interactive micro coil. Together, these two layers create a uniquely buoyant yet stable feeling mattress—beneficial for all sleeping positions. The Areus II uses three different coil sizes to provide support and contour. It seamlessly yields to your curves while strongly supporting your body's weight for excellent pressure reduction and less motion transfer. And it's made with breathable, natural materials for a healthier, drier, more comfortable sleep environment. The Areus II brings together our most innovative design elements to create a healthy mattress with a balanced, dense, yet pliable feel.

Dynamic contour for superior comfort

The Areus II surface features 1,100 interactive bi-level carbon steel micro coils. By alternating these tall and short coils, the taller coils have greater range of flex upon contact. The result is a dynamic sensation of elasticity and pressure reduction at the surface. At the base, 1,370 six-inch coils support your body's weight and shape creating stability and comfort. All the coils are independent to eliminate bounce and motion transfer. The Areus II comes with natural latex foam cushioning and a breathable stretch organic cotton cover lined with wool to keep you cool and dry. All components are certified ecologically healthy. With two firmness options and a dual firmness option for couples, the Areus II offers a buoyant feel and reliable support.
